A Mrs. Jones, who recently died in the north of Wales, claimed to be the mother of Henry M. Stanley, the explorer. A monument is to be erected over her grave, recording the fact.

try-girl snored him. He had been on his usual summer fishing trip and met her at some rural picnic, straightway

went wild over her; made desperate

love; was refused as a suspicious character by a grim Scotch father, who relented, however, when St. Leger's fine credentials were shown. The lady was not rich, either in purse or worldly wisdom, but only sweet, ingenious and beautiful. St. Leger's pride in this unexpected bride bordered on folly—a folly he took no pains to conceal from the world at large. He lavished everything

upon her that his cosmopolitan taste could suggest or money procure. And also accepted his homage with a hap-pleness so exuberant and naive that,

as he was, he was wholly oblivious to the unsophisticated flavor in her his friend was so quick to detect. Soon enough, no doubt, the bloom would be brushed from her fair nature by the world's rude hands.

She entered upon her city life with a piquant enjoyment that drew continuous attention to her. The gala times were child's frolic to her. But if only Griz-zie were there! If only Grizzie could see this, what a thrill she would get!

She was her secret wish, she was whomsoever she met. Grizzie was her sister, her dearest companion, left in the little up-country village, and the delight of her new life could not wholly make up to her the loss.

"Write to Grizzie, then," her husband said, "and have her come. She is such a blossom as this black city has not seen for many a day—except you,

dear."

"O may I write! How lovely it would be to have her with me when you can't go, Robert!"

"Very well added, you transparent little! I've heard nothing but

"Grizzie" ever since we began housekeeping. I have known all along I am only secondarily."

"O, Robert, it isn't that—really it isn't. But Grizzie is so fond of life, and has such a quick taste for everything fine. She is much better fitted for a grand life than I, standing by her side and finally perishing upon her neck."

So the letter to Grizzie—Scottish

Grace—was sent, and the invitation met a ready acceptance. Unhappily glad was she of the chance of meeting him

in no way backward in saying so.

The morning of her arrival, as St.

Leger was on his way to the train to meet her, he had encountered his old boy companion and chum, Windsor.

What a strange sort of city life for Windsor! He looked back at the old days with him, which had seemed rather gay at the time, as a period of wasted

and misguided existence compared with the present. But of a sudden he saw and a bona fide, beautiful life, and

Windsor was sensible of this patronizingly, and never more so than when St. Leger

mentioned the sister-in-law, as he afterward detailed it to Brigham.

And it seemed like a distant echo of St. Leger in everything. Windsor was inflamed by it. As he left that gentleman's office after the effort to unbear-

himself he muttered under his breath:

"I don't propose to make myself one of a silly rabble, training radically in the wake of a pretty woman! Put myself out of the way to pay court to an up-

country girl who probably nibbles stu-

pencies in the intervals of angling for a lover!"

Mostly take it out in hissing. Few men restlessly up and down with his hands in his pockets and his eyes bent upon the floor.

"Windsor," he finally broke out, "I suppose you've heard?"

"No. What?"

"My home must go! It's all up!"

"What do you mean?"

"It's all up, I say. I've done what I could to weather the storm. 'Twas no

use—no use."

"Why, Brigham, old fellow, why didn't you come to me?"

"No—I can't receive favors."

"I'm thunderstruck!"—though he wasn't; all Brigham's friends had foreseen this. "And Mrs. Brigham—how does she bear it?"

"Why, Windsor, she's all the comfort

I have. She positively makes holiday out of it—talks of light housekeeping in two rooms, and of giving art lessons.

She has all the pluck! I am the baby,"

and he quite broke down.

Others coming in interrupted. When once more alone Windsor began with a somewhat awkward hesitation.

"Brigham, you know I've always said

—said a man was—a fool to marry!"

Brigham interrupted him with a flash

of anger. "See here, Windsor, I want none of that! If you have any of your curious philosophy to apply to this case please leave it to me. The man who, from the first, deliberately and persistently with full knowledge lived beyond his income!"

"But—but," protested Windsor.

"You've always cracked, Windsor.

You're a fool, and I am a fool. St. Leger down as a fool. I bore it as long as it seemed only ludicrous, but now that it is insolent I don't propose to bear it any longer!" And bang went a ledger, while Brigham turned from red to white and white to red.

"But," stammered Windsor, "you

It would be a good idea for some of the debating societies to tackle the subject, "Is this a Democratic Administration?"

The Fusionist, or Mulligan party, defeated in the recent city election at Lexington, will contest the election, alleging fraud.

J. Dexter Kehoe, of Maysville, is announced as a Democratic candidate for Congress in the Ninth District, now represented by W. H. Wadsworth, Republican.

Senator Jones, of Florida, claims that he is not "incouraging an heiress in Michigan." He says he went to Detroit for his health and will soon return to his seat in the Senate.

The poultry breeders held a convention at Atlanta last week and elected Henry W. Grady, of Georgia, President. It is thought that R. B. Hayes, of Ohio, will make an effort to be counted in.

The pupils in one of the public school buildings in Cincinnati struck for less time in the school room and the police had to be called in. Thirteen boys were suspended and the strike was soon over.

There is nothing new to report about the strike. The military forces are still preserving order at East St. Louis and trains are now running on regular time. The strikers are still striking, and (as their places have been filled) they are able to continue to strike indefinitely.

Gov. Bate has appointed Gen. W. C. Whitthorne United States Senator to succeed Howell E. Jackson. The term of the new Senator is for only eleven months. Gen. Whitthorne was formerly a Congressman and his appointment gives very general satisfaction to the people of Tennessee.

The re-appointment of Mrs. Thompson as post-master at Louisville has kicked up a tremendous furor. Congressman Willis is probably serving his last term in Congress. We do not blame the people for kicking the Louisville Democrats had a right to expect that the President would give them a Democratic post-master, and his failure to do so is a sore disappointment to them. Of course the Republicans are jubilant.

A straight tip was received from the White House last week that Jno. G. Roach would be appointed post-master at Louisville, but, as Urey Woodson remarked in a recent issue of his paper, "even straight tips have been known to fail" and on Friday the President sent in the nomination of Mrs. Virginia Campbell Thompson. Mrs. Thompson has been a Republican office-holder for nine years and the appointment was received with such dissatisfaction that an indignation meeting was held Saturday night and a formal protest was made against the continuance in office of a Republican who has contributed to Republican campaign funds from year to year since she has been postmaster. Resolutions denouncing Congressman Willis were adopted and fiery speeches were made by a number of leading Democrats. The President was also called upon to reconsider his nomination and withdraw the nomination. Senator Blackburn announces that he will fight the confirmation of the nomination in the Senate.

Mrs. Thompson is a daughter of Alexander Campbell, the founder of the Christian Church, and it is said that religious influences were brought to bear to continue her in office, just as they were when President Garfield re-appointed her.

Press Convention.

FRANKFORT, Ky., April 13, 1886. In accordance with the request of the delegates to the late International Press Association, and upon the invitation of the local press at Henderson, a meeting of the Kentucky Press Association is hereby called at Henderson, on Wednesday, April 29th. All editors and publishers in the State are invited to attend, whether heretofore members of the association or not. The meeting will be strictly for business. Arrangements will be made for hotel rates and for transportation, particulars of which will be duly announced.

BURYING THE DEAD.

The Fearful Work of the Minnesota Cyclone.

St. Cloud, Minn., April 16.—Solomon's requiem mass was held in the Cathedral this morning over the remains of thirteen victims of the cyclone. Similar services took place in the church of the Immaculate Conception over the remains of four. Both churches were heavily draped. The funeral cortege passed, on its way to the cemetery, through the devastated district. About 2,000 persons were present from all over the country. The dead were buried in two large graves—some adults in one and eight children in the other. Mrs. Stein was buried yesterday, and Mrs. Fehr to-day, in the North Star Protestant Cemetery. Annie Stebbins, three years of age, died this morning from the effects of a fractured skull. Wilbur Dahman, a farmer near Buckman, a town twenty-five miles from here, and a workman named Clark on Senator Buckman's farm, were both killed. Fifty-four wounded have been attended to at the hospital. Thirty are there at present, and five at the convent. Every house in the vicinity has one or more wounded, and nearly 100 in the two towns are injured. These in the hospital are under the charge of five doctors and fifteen sisters of St. Benedict. Two out of ten on whom amputating operations were performed will die. The doctors are very busy, and have had little sleep. Wm. Shortbridge, who had both legs amputated, lies in a critical condition. Mrs. Juegion was in the hospital this morning looking after her wounded husband and two children. Three of her children who were killed were buried this morning. Fourteen dead were buried in the cemetery at Sauk Rapids to-day. Ten doctors have been in attendance, and a large number of nurses from St. Paul and Minneapolis are looking after the wounded.

Nothing has been done to remove the wreck in either St. Cloud or Sauk Rapids. The loss of property in St. Cloud is estimated at $70,000, and in Sauk Rapids at $28,000. The wreckage on the railroad is estimated at $20,000. About a dozen photographers with instruments are taking views here. The body of Edgar Hall, of St. Cloud banker, who was killed at Sauk Rapids, arrived here this afternoon and was conducted by members of the Council to the depot on the way to Kalamazoo, Mich., for interment.

DEATH AT A MARRIAGE ALTAR.
RICE STATION, MINN., April 16.—The fatal ending of the wedding party near this village forms one of the saddest features of the wholesale destruction of life and property wrought in this section by Thursday night's cyclone. The party was assembled at the residence of John Schultz, a farmer, to celebrate the wedding of his daughter, Mamie, and the ceremony was performed about 1 o'clock by Rev. Gustavus Smith. The afternoon was spent in social enjoyment, and at 4 o'clock the party gathered about the wedding feast. It was a happy assemblage of nearly forty people celebrating the bridal festivities of the favorite daughter of the house. The cyclone came, and in the space of five minutes the house was converted into a killing wood and scattered all over the farm. Many of the happy party of a few minutes before were corpses and many others injured, several of whom will die. There was not a building in which the few survivors could care for those past help. The bridegroom was killed outright, but the bride was only injured. The neighbors who had escaped the fury of the cyclone came to the rescue, and the bodies of the dead were taken to the school-house at Rice Station.

SAVED BY CYCLONE CELLARS.
OMAHA, Neb., April 16.—Dispatches from towns in Western Iowa where the cyclone traveled, show that it was of terrific force, going at the rate of nearly ninety miles an hour. The loss of property between Griswold and Audubon is estimated at $175,000. Fences, barns, dwellings and everything were laid low in the path of the cyclone. The small loss of life is accounted for by the fact that the cyclone occurred in the day time and nearly every one saw the cloud approaching and ran to their cyclone cellars, which nearly every farm in that part of Iowa is provided with.

HELP FOR THE SUFFERERS.
MINNEAPOLIS, April 16.—The City Council to-day passed a resolution appropriating $25,000 for the benefit of the cyclone sufferers.

THE SUFFERERS AT SAUK RAPIDS.
SAUK RAPIDS, April 17.—Workmen are clearing away the debris, and owners are preparing to rebuild stores and residences. Four more victims were buried this afternoon. The wounded are being cared for in a temporary hospital under the charge of Dr. Dunn, of Minneapolis. What is now wanted is money and clothing.

Caroline Hart had an arm amputated at the shoulder to-day, and Mrs. Cankop, who received internal injuries is not expected to live. Miss Carpenter, who died yesterday, was injured by a splinter that ran through her breast. The remains of A. E. Scheuber, a druggist, were sent to-day to Erfurt, Wis., where is father resides. Among the fruits of the cyclone were wafting a lot of clothing from a tailor shop here to Brainard, Minn., sixty-two miles distant. The carrying of a head-stone from the graveyard here to St. Cloud, across the Mississippi and landed it three miles away. Also a safe weighing 1,500 pounds was carried 400 feet. The hungry are being given free meals at two hotels and the relief committee is receiving packages by every train. All the homeless have been provided for and the relief committee is hard at work doing all needed good.

DIED OF HIS WOUNDS.
ST. PAUL, MINN., April 17.—Hon. E. G. Halbert, who was injured in the cyclone at Sauk Rapids, Wednesday evening, died in this city at 11 o'clock this morning. He remained unconscious to the last.

Ague.

No medicine in the world will affect such an immediate and complete cure for any and all Malarial or Bilious troubles as Collins' Ague Cure. I guarantee a cure with every bottle either of Ague, Chills, Malarial fever, etc., or Biliousness, Dyspepsia or Liver Complaint. Money refunded in every case of failure.

Jo. P. Doane,..... Lexington, Ky.

Quicker than you can say "Jack Robinson" the news that Miss May Albrow of this city, had eloped with Professor Robinson, of the Grand, rolled over Covington. It is decided by the nature of a sensation. It was an open secret that Professor Jack was smitten with Miss Albrow, who, in her own right, is the fortunate possessor to the tune of about $30,000, and in good solid first mortgage notes at that, but the friends of the young lady, who has risked so much by the step taken never dreamed that the devotion of the handsome professor was returned. It seems, however, that they were mistaken. Yesterday Miss Albrow left her home and met the professor. Subsequently Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Matthews joined them and the party proceeded to Falmouth, Penitentiary county, Kentucky, and the marriage followed. Miss Albrow is nineteen years of age and is a decidedly handsome young lady. Her parents are dead. She is a grand daughter of the late Captain Vincent Shiloh. Mr. and Mrs. Robinson returned from Falmouth and are now in Covington.—Covington Commonwealth.

Cholera in Italy.

VIENNA, April 17.—Cases of cholera are reported from Trieste. The outbreak of the disease in Italy is said to be more serious than was at first stated. The authorities there, it is alleged, are hiding the truth regarding the ravages of the disease. The Austrian authorities have again established a cordon on the Italian frontier, and every precaution will be taken to prevent the spread of the epidemic.

Kentucky Progress.

[Manufacturers Record.]

The capacity of the Denbar Watch Case Manufacturing Co's works, at Newport, Ky., will be doubled. It is stated that the company will remove either one-half or their entire works to some other city if sufficient inducements are offered.

Bills have been introduced in the Kentucky Legislature to incorporate the Enterprise Street Railway Co., of Louisville, capital stock $100,000; the Danvers Edge Tool & Manufacturing Co., capital stock $100,000, with J. W. Miles, George W. Baylor and M. P. Coomes, of Louisville, as incorporators; the Silver Crown Mining & Manufacturing Co., and the Louisville & Portsmouth Railway Co.

Dunigan & Nicol, Frankfort, Ky., whose saw mill was reported last week as burned, loss $15,000, are rebuilding.

James R. Mills, Thomas A. Logan, Edward C. Mills, Howard M. Adair and Nathaniel Rockhold have incorporated at Covington, Ky., the Cincinnati Paper Novelty Co., capital stock $5,000 to manufacture envelopes.

Call on Mr. Feland.

To Hon. JOHN FELAND:
Recognizing that the office is a high and responsible trust requiring in the discharge of its duties the highest order of legal ability and industry, and that moral honesty, unflinching integrity, and sterling independence that can not be swayed by political influences. And believing that an office affecting the rights of all the people should be filled by the people, and not through the machinations of partisans and factional schemers, we the undersigned most respectfully beg that you allow us to support you for Circuit Court Judge of this district at the ensuing election.

Woman's Chance of Marriage.

[Hawesville Ballot.]
Offers of marriages fall to the lot of nearly all women at some period of life. Woman's chance to marry may be one to fifty, or it may be one to one that she will. Her chances at certain points of her progress in time, is found to be:

15 and 20 years, about 1 in 7
20 and 25 " " 1 in 2
25 and 30 " " 1 in 5 1/2
30 and 35 " " 1 in 6 1/2
35 and 40 " " 1 in 27
40 and 45 " " 1 in 40
45 and 50 " " 1 in 267
50 and 55 " " 1 in 400
After sixty it is one tenth of one per cent, or one chance in a thousand. A pretty slender figure.
